FAMOUS SANTA CLARA VALLEY

CAMPBELL AND COMMUNITY

NO. 32, VOL. 2

CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1926.

Alfalfa pays both the farmer and the land.

An increase from 55 cents to 60 cents a pound for alfalfa has been announced.

Sacramento Valley continues to produce more than 95 per cent of the total rice grown in the state.

The first car of Gravensteins to leave Sonoma county this season was sent out of Geyserville recently.

Shipments of plums from California the past season totaled 3,709 cars, compared with 2,887 in 1924 and 5,240 in 1923.

Ten carloads of sheep were shipped recently from the Bloomfield, Sonoma county section to San Francisco and Willows.

Milo corn in the McFarland district is doing very well though the acreage is smaller than usual, because of extended cotton plantings.

Cotton production in California increased 58 per cent last year over the 1924 total, although the increase in acreage was only 33 per cent.

Concern is felt among the rice growers of the Cordua and Hallwood irrigation districts, east of Marysville, over a sudden drop in the waters of the Yuba river.

Five boxes of huckleberries, the first for 1926, were shipped a short time ago from the Flori ranch, north of Healdsburg. The shipment was 23 days earlier than last season.

M. M. Winslow, Riverside county farm adviser reports that there is considerable new planting of Deglet Noor dates in Coachella valley. Offshoots are now being cut and planted.

California produced 181,000 tons of pears in 1925, which is 31,000 tons above the production of any previous year. The bearing acreage of pears has increased 113 per cent since 1919.

The Van Nuys cannery will start its first run of the season on apricots about July 1. Large quantities of peaches will be shipped in from San Joaquin valley this season for canning.

Cucumbers are being cultivated on a large scale as an experiment by J. R. Talbot on his ranch at Graton, Sonoma county, and also by the owners of the Schoof ranch near Graton. Talbot has two acres in the new crop.

The apricot harvesting season opened in Riverside county, June 20. There is a light crop, but the fruit is of such quality that buyers from many southern California points are in the field both for canning and green fruit trade. Cannery have offered $50 per ton.

The Chico Valley Peach Growers' association has sold its 1926 crop of peaches to a Pomona cannery. The prices to be paid are $45 per ton for No. 1 clings 2 1/4 inches or over; $30 for No. 2, with a 10 per cent tolerance; $35 for No. 1 Lovell freestones, and $25 for No. 2.

A final check of the 1925 prune crop indicates a total production of about 145,000 tons. The abnormally high temperatures during June and July injured the crop to some extent in the interior valleys. Since 1919 the acreage of bearing prune trees has increased 39 per cent.

The mint crop, one of the Porterville district's newest industries, will be ready to harvest within a short time, and distilling will follow. A considerable acreage is devoted to the plant in the Woodville section, with John N. Davies, formerly a mint grower of Oregon, pioneering in the industry.

A number of apple evaporators in the Sebastopol district were fired up recently for the first time this season. Within a short time more than 100 driers in the Sebastopol territory will be in operation. It is expected that 3,500 tons of evaporated apples will be the output of the driers this season.

Saving fruit for ones self out of a home orchard is a discouraging business. Between birds, bees and passersby, according to J. F. Alexander, at McFarland, one does well to get any. His early apricots and peaches were first picked at by birds, then the bees came into the holes left and ate the flesh out. To cap the climax, one day when he was absent for a short while, thieves came into his orchard, which is on the state highway, and stripped a plum tree of about five boxes of choice plums which he had been saving to can.

Friends and neighbors of Alvin Johnson of Delhi, gathered in his alfalfa field recently and did a service for him by putting up his hay. Johnson was stricken with diphtheria recently, causing him to abandon his labor in the fields.

Boycott labels are being used by field workers of the state board of health, it was announced in a campaign to abolish the common drinking cup. Wherever the walking delegates of cleanliness and sanitation see a tin cup hanging on a chain he licks and sticks a label reading: "Don't drink from this cup—it may carry disease."

The sum of $750 was realized from the benefit dance given on an open-air platform in Roseville for William Newsome, high school boy of Yuba City, who suffered a fracture of the backbone in an automobile accident. The goal is $1,000, and friends will continue their efforts, as that sum is considered necessary to assure the patient the proper care and medical attention.

The Anderson, Clayton company of Los Angeles and Dallas, has commenced construction of a cotton gin at Merced. The plant, embodying the latest improvements in ginning machinery, will have a maximum capacity of 50 bales each day and will be completed by September 1. The cost is estimated at nearly $50,000. The gin will probably take care of the product of 5,000 acres this year.

California can grow anything that grows in Florida, and that goes even for alligators. Armed posses were reported searching near Jackson, Amador county, for a large alligator seen in a reservoir which schoolboys use as a swimming hole. The saurian is believed to be the property of Dr. E. E. Endicott. The physician bought a baby alligator six years ago and it escaped shortly after its delivery at Jackson.

Announcement that the state government has spent $62,995.03 during the last two years, in efforts to bring about return to California of persons who decided they liked other states better was made today by the state board of control. The state will not spend money on every deserter of California sunshine, however. The money in question was used in extraditing murderers, robbers, burglars, forgers and other persons charged with felonies.

SITE OF THE FIRST PHONE MESSAGE

An old hunting rifle which belonged to Abraham Lincoln came to light among the early day relics at Sutter's Fort, when the historic fortress and museum was visited recently by the Rev. Ig Chief Horse Eagle, 104-year-old Indian evangelist and friend of the martyred president. The aged redskin, internationally known as a revivalist as well as an Oklahoma chieftan who has smoked the pipe of peace with every American president since Lincoln, was visibly moved when the ancient rifle was discovered and placed in his hands. The weapon, according to information available here, was used "by Abraham Lincoln and Mr. Wilson during a hunting trip in 1848." Among California's fortune hunters was "Mr. Wilson" and with him came the Lincoln rifle which happily found its way into the state collection of historic mementoes of the past.

Memories of the old days when the heroine at the risk of her life stopped a wildly plunging runaway team, were revived at Etna recently when Mrs. M. H. McCarthy, wife of the editor of the Western Sentinel, risked her life to stop a runaway. It was not a team, but a runaway automobile. The risk, however, was equally as great. The car, being cranked, jumped out of control and commenced a wild plunge down the hill on the main street. Sensing that the car would strike other automobiles and possibly cause a fatality, Mrs. McCarthy made a flying leap into the machine, grabbed the wheel and, throwing on the brakes, stopped the car as it threatened to crash into a row of parked vehicles, some of them occupied.

Work is well under way on the new $800,000 expansion program at the Tulare County Fairgrounds at Tulare. The first project is construction of a high fenced inclosure around the new six-acre addition to the grounds which was recently purchased. The next step will be laying of paved sidewalks along the front side and main entrance to the fairgrounds. A number of other improvements are to be made later, but prior to opening of the annual fair in this city in September. The Tulare chamber of commerce each year adds to value of the grounds, spending $14,000 in a similar program last year.

The Napa State hospital had added more equipment with which to facilitate the handling of products grown on the hospital holdings for distribution among the patients of the institution at a considerable saving to the state. The latest project is a cannery which has been equipped on a basis sufficiently large enough to handle the fruits taken from the hospital orchards. A new retort has been secured and a modern sealing machine has been installed.

Miss Elizabeth O. Kenney, formerly of Los Angeles, ex-city attorney of Needles, Cal., now a practicing attorney at Eureka, Cal., was married in Palo Alto to Mark F. Morrison, who is a member of a rival law firm in Eureka. Both will continue to practice as rivals. Miss Kenney was graduated from Stanford in 1924 and Morrison received his degree there in 1925.

The Mammoth Cory Thornless blackberry vines on ranches in the Sebastopol section were inspected by J. L. Stahl, from the University Farm, Davis, and H. P. Everett, assistant Sonoma county farm advisor. Several instances of berries drying out had been reported and the specialists sent to study the vines. Specimens of the berries and portions of vines collected will be sent to plant pathologists throughout the United States to determine whether the trouble was caused by a specific disease or by lack of vitality in the vines and to find out how other districts have handled similar situations. A series of tests will be conducted locally for the coming season to work out methods of control.

On June 14 the cash receipts for citrus fruit sold through the Whittier District Fruit Exchange passed the million-dollar mark. This milestone in the year's business was reached about ten days earlier this year than last, which is due to heavier shipments rather than higher prices. The navel crop cleaned up about two weeks earlier than normal this year and gave the Valencia shippers an opportunity to start their crop earlier than usual. Lemon shipments have been the heaviest in the history of the district. Eastern weather conditions are said to be improving and it seems reasonable to expect that with warmer weather the demand for both oranges and lemons will increase from now on.

The dairy industry in the Guadalupe section has been witnessing steady growth, and now returns dairymen a total of around $1600 a day or $50,000 each month. With the seeding of new acreage to alfalfa, too, the basis for larger herds is being laid. Erection of silos and growing of corn for silage throughout the valley is another activity going hand in hand with the rapidly expanding dairy interests.

One hundred farmers recently viewed one another's work of the year on as many Sonoma county farms. The pilgrimage about the county was arranged under the direction of the Sonoma county farm advisor, to indicate how scientific handling of trees and crops would add to their growth and to the yield. An inspection was also made of much orchard and farm work done along progressive lines.

One hundred seventy-five bushels of potatoes to the acre was the average yield for the first five acres on which digging has been completed by the California Vegetable Union, which has 240 acres planted to potatoes in the Woodville section, west of Porterville. One hundred twenty-five bushels of the total yield will grade U. S. No. 1.

In response to a long distance telephone call from a representative of the Big Horn Canning company, Cheyenne, Wyo., L. C. Johnson, wholesale tomato plant grower of Pomona, recently shipped 100,000 young plants to Cowley, Wyo., where the company maintains a large acreage for growing vegetables for canning.

CAMPBELL TO HELP ENTERTAIN SCRIBES

The Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday was a bit brightened by the presence of several ladies as guests. Chairman of the day was Rus Kennedy who manipulated the new gavel like a judge.

Miss Olive Hanger furnished two pretty piano numbers. Alvin Long of San Jose gave an interesting account of the enjoyable trip to the International held at Montreal recently.

Lieut. Gov. Wendell Thomas asked the hearty cooperation of all in entertaining the National Editors next week. They will arrive in this valley Sunday afternoon and be entertained through northern California during the week following. The tour of Santa Clara Valley will start from Palo Alto Thursday noon. Campbell's part will be to furnish its quota of autos for the excursion party and will pass out delicious peaches to the visitors as they pass through town. "Tac" Cutting will be acting president next week and Wendell Thomas will make his official report of the International convention.

CONG. FREE PRESENTS DIPLOMA TO SON

Congressman A. M. Free of this district had the unusual privilege last week of presenting to his eldest son, Lloyd Free, on behalf of the Board of Education of the District of Columbia, a diploma from the Western High School, Washington, D. C.

The incident is more interesting in that this is the second diploma which the father has presented to his son, he having presented him with a diploma upon his graduation from the Grammar School.

The occasion was especially novel by reason of the fact that in the class were sons of the following members of Congress: Senator Wheeler of Montana; Congressman Evans of Montana; Congressman Connolly of Texas; and Congressman Goodwin of Minnesota.

In addition to receiving the ordinary diploma of graduation, Lloyd received a special certificate for high scholarship, a medal for special services rendered the school as editor of the Annual Year Book and Lieutenant-Colonel of all the cadets of the District of Columbia, and he was also placed on the honor roll of the school. He has taken the college entrance examination preparatory to entering upon university work in the fall.

Hog prices reached a new high mark of the year with a top of $14.75 at a recent auction of the California Farm Bureau Marketing association, held at Tulare. Several lots sold for $14.75. The total for the sale was $3631.39, three carloads being disposed of by thirty consignors, with a strong demand indicated.

Shipment of trainload lots of Kern county produce is under way, the marketing season being well advanced, according to Whit C. Barber, county horticultural commissioner. The potato shipments will approximate 750 carloads to date with a few spare lots yet unmarketed.

The barley crop in Tulare county is about two-thirds normal this year, and of generally poor quality, according to farm officials. This condition is due to rains which came too late to save many crops.

Figures compiled by the California Cattlemen's association show that Napa county has 5,500 head of dairy cattle and 8,500 head of range cattle. While this county ranks thirty-second in its number of dairy cattle, it is one of the foremost in the state in the raising of beef.

A new packing plant for the Kimball Fruit company at Sebastopol, is being rushed to completion and it is expected will be ready for the opening of the Gravenstein apple pack early in July.

The house was prettily decorated and only the relatives of the bride and groom witnessed the impressive ceremony performed by Rev. F. C. Farr. The young couple will make their home in Los Gatos where Mr. Hubbell is an electrician. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. $20 Counterfeit Bill Circulated on Pacific Coast

Following receipt of a warning from the United States secret service, and the appearance in San Jose of several of the notes, local banks have issued a general warning to the effect that a batch of $20 gold certificates have made their appearance in this part of the state.

They are series 22, with the check letter "C" on plate 656. H. V. Speelman is listed as register of the treasury and Frank White as treasurer of the United States. The notes bear a portrait of George Washington.

The certificates are yellow-backed and a trifle blotchy. The background to the portrait is a little too dark. Experts characterize the counterfeits as an excellent job, likely to deceive the average person.

Notes bearing the following numbers have appeared already: K5706057, K57059721, K57069962, K57059968, K57059960, K57059765, K57059769.

About the only things that come back to the people from a political campaign are the election returns.

Speaking of farm relief, it looks as though the best the farms will get is some of the bull from Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Parker of Crockett visited at the J. F. Duncan home from Saturday to Monday.

Mrs. Emily P. Gard is enjoying a vacation in Los Angeles and taking some special study in music.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mendel and son, Walter of Palo Alto spent the holidays here with their parents.

The S. N. Hedegard family went to Capitola last week where they have a commodious summer cottage.

Mrs. J. Vandergracht and children who are spending part of the summer at Twin Lakes, were home for a short time the first of the week.

A grass fire which threatened to become dangerous called out the fire company Saturday, but was subdued before their services were required.

Mrs. D. H. Cramer enjoyed a visit Monday with a former schoolmate, Mrs. Ida Greenburg, who is spending part of the summer at Santa Cruz.

REPEATING WHAT IS SOUND

Since newspapers have been established, since towns and cities have been built, since commerce has unfurled its sails on the high seas and turned its wheels upon the land, the idea of community loyalty has been kept before the people in changing phrases. The trade-at-home idea has been exploited for all that it is worth. And it is worth a lot because what it expresses is economically sound. Being sound it has lived and thrived. It is GOOD BUSINESS for any community to encourage local business. It is the community asserting itself for every citizen within its boundaries and trading zone.

No merchant, newspaper or civic body desires to impose upon the people of the community any impractical program or scheme of development. But the mathematical certainty of a trade-at-home campaign to foster community thrift and enhance the wealth and stability of the home town is the assurance of a right motive.

Remember this: the eagle on the dollar is symbolic that the dollar is capable of flying away. A Domesticated fowl is the one that stays at home. Let's keep our dollars Domesticated as much as possible by keeping them at home.

THE ADVERTISED PRODUCT

How often have we chosen between an article that was advertised and a similar product of which we had scarcely ever heard? Yet this happens nearly every day with the majority of people who do the buying for the households of the land.

We have often heard the question asked of whether the well-known products are actually better because advertised or because we THINK they are better.

They are indeed both. Quality is the father of advertising, because proven quality stimulates men to obtain the resources necessary to advertise in a big way.

It follows that advertising is father to quality, because as advertising increases sales it enables the refinement and improvement of an article or product and links it up with better service, larger sales, and a corresponding reduction in the cost of distribution.

Where you will find one well-advertised product of inferior trade, you will find ten that are superior to the non-advertised product.

BUSINESS TO THE BAT

The summer season is here and it behooves every business man to bridge the languid gap of July and August with increased energy. Summer can be made profitable and stimulating in many lines by the taking on of a summer attitude. That attitude is alertness and wide-awakeness to all that is going on and to all opportunities that are passing by. When business goes out the bat in summer it generally makes a clean home run by fall.

REVENGE

I wish to goodness that the bloke who sits and blows tobacco smoke into my face, at the cafe where I have luncheon every day, could be transported to the clime where folks are smoking all the time. I'd like on Heaven's walls to sit and look down in the torrid pit, where fountains boil and blaze throughout the never-ending days, and watch him get upon his toes with burning brimstone neath his nose, and listen to him as he'd cough his empty headpiece nearly off. I'd like to see his lungs clogged up, this orn'ry, mealtime smoking pup, to hear him bark and bark again, and note him racked with awful pain. Each day when I am at my soup, appears this base, ill-mannered goop, and there he'll puff his cigarette, while I can nothing do but fret. He smokes on everything I eat, my taters, and my bread and meat; my pie is smothered in the mist blown by this coarsened vacuist. A perfect nuisance is this chump, and O, I'd like his face to thump. But he wears human clothes, so he would by the law protected be, and I don't want to be shut up or fined for kicking such a pup. So I'll just pray that when old Death shall snatch from him his tainted breath, he'll go below to shovel coke, where all he'll have to breathe is smoke. —Bulletin.

Municipal ownership and operation of the water plant in Clovis has proven a success from the very inception in 1914 when the city voted $25,000 in bonds two years after incorporation. At the same time the city voted a like sum for a sewer system. So success- ful has been the municipal water ownership venture experienced by the city that all extensions and additions to the water service have been taken care of without the levying of a tax. The profit has been approximately $3,000 per annum, sufficient to take care of the needs as the city grew.

Baldwin, who lost both arms two years ago in a railroad ac- cident here, covered 7,800 miles in his recent trip across the continent, which started as a publicity stunt for a make of automobile, but ended in a personal tour. Salinas Gets Ready to Do Her Stuff

With comfortable new stands having almost double seating capacity of former years, and with many new and startling events added to the attractive program, the fifteenth annual California Rodeo, to be staged here July 21-25, inclusive, promises to be the greatest wild west show in the entire country.

The wild cow milking contest, a new feature, is one of the greatest attractions. A display of the winning stock horses from the leading horse shows in the country is another.

Already the city is rapidly filling up with cowboys, all anxiously waiting for the big roundup to get under way.

In addition to the new grandstand, new barns have been constructed in the Rodeo field for twice as many horses as heretofore.

Although there are over a thousand new hotel rooms in Salinas and on the Monterey Peninsula every private home is making arrangements to house some visitors.

RE-NOMINATE GOVERNOR RICHARDSON

Gov. Richardson Has Made good to Give the State an Efficient and Economical Administration, Together with Law Enforcement.

HE STANDS HIGH UP HERE

The expected announcement of the candidacy of Governor Richardson for re-nomination is made. It was generally known that the governor felt that he had had all the honor of the position in his present term and that to continue in the position would mean only another four years of strenuous labor and nerve exhausting experience unavoidable in public office of such high rank as the state's chief executive. But it was practically certain that the demand from such a large number of the people of the state and from such influential sources as have appealed to him to run again, would result in his acceptance of the responsibility.

In the North-of-Bay counties Richardson is especially strong. Sonoma county people admire his independence of the "practical politics" in making appointments; they admire his firm stand in favor of law enforcement and punishment of criminals according to the judgments of the court; they believe in his integrity and efficiency in securing for the state an administration of its economic affairs on a sound, business like plan.

The candidacy of Richardson will meet with hearty support up this way and the indication is that he will receive liberal support from all other parts of the state and be nominated easily over the other contestants.

—Santa Rosa Republican.

COLORADO RIVER DAM

That Governor Richardson favors the construction of a dam across the Colorado river at Boulder Canyon or some other available point is known of all men. It could not be otherwise, for, as we say, the enterprise is favored by every man, woman and child in the state of California. Over and above the Governor's stand as a patriotic and courageous public official, over and above his stand for the economic expenditure of public money and the enforcement of the laws, over and above the fact that he has made a fearless public official in the performance of his duty—over and above these things is the fact that his defeat is sought at the hands of as corrupt a political machine as ever attempted to do politics in this state. Men whom he has dismissed from office have joined in the hue and cry against him. He was for a time undecided whether or not to make another campaign. He would much prefer to have retired to private life, standing on his record of deeds accomplished rather than get into the turmoil of politics again. For it seems to be the rule of politics in California that no man may aspire to public office without running the gauntlet of vituperation and abuse. It is only at the earnest solicitation of his many friends throughout the state that he has consented to go before the people for re-election. He has been true to himself and has not been false to any man.

It will not do for Mr. Young to charge the Governor with being opposed to this great internal improvement. That is not so and no one knows it better than Mr. Young himself. If he has no better campaign material to offer, he might as well return to Berkeley and hang his harp on a willow tree.

—Anaheim Gazette.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND ECONOMY

Governor Friend Richardson has decided to enter the race. He stands on his record, flatly and without apology. He intimates that his coming campaign will stress two issues, law enforcement and economy. The voters know that the state's chief executive is not inclined to start something he cannot finish, therefore his chances for re-election are bright indeed.

—Hanford Sentinel.

LOOKS GOOD FOR THE STATE ADMINISTRATION

It looks as though Governor Richardson has a rabbit's foot in his vest pocket and that it was working full time. The Governor has made good and would have been elected even in face of a strong, single candidate but when there is three or four it will be a walk away.

Lieutenant Governor Young is issuing his weekly bulletins showing how in his opinion the Governor should be defeated. Mr. Rex. C. Goodcell is equally as active telling why he should be elected and then there are one or two up about San Francisco bay who are receptive and at least one has announced his candidacy.

All this will make it much easier for Friend W. Richardson but he would win anyway so it matters little.
